

C

The Capstone Quartet

461 Ben Elmore Road · Gordo, Alabama · (205) 331-9997

BIOGRAPHY

"CAPSTONE", a word that means the finishing touch, reaching a final effect, a culmination, or...

The Highest Point!

Capstone Quartet was formed in 1992 in Tuscaloosa, AL – home of the University of Alabama and its campus commonly referred to as “The Capstone”. The group regularly appeared at The Fireman’s Singing that was held there annually and drew thousands of fans from across the nation to what was then Memorial Coliseum. This is the location where The Kingsmen Quartet recorded their popular live album that introduced songs such as “Saints Will Rise”. In fact, men like Eldridge Fox, who appeared that night with The Kingsmen, as well as many others throughout the years have been instrumental to Capstone’s success by sharing their knowledge and encouraging perseverance. Today, Capstone remains focused on singing praises to the “stone that the builders rejected” and continues to strive to reach the highest point – the very CAPSTONE – in building Christ’s kingdom on earth by sharing the Plan of Salvation through music and testimony at each and every opportunity.

Capstone has performed in an array of venues across roughly half of the nation ranging from churches and auditoriums to town festivals and massive coliseums. The group receives both national and international airplay and has been blessed with single charting success in Singing News Magazine and other leading industry publications. Capstone has undergone changes throughout the years, but its commitment to carry the Gospel has never waived. The group consists of Bob Sellers (Lead/Manager), Dale Taylor (Tenor), Dave Waldrep (Bass) and Dave Ezell (Baritone). These men each share a common bond in trying to win lost souls to Christ and encouraging the church. Most importantly, each member is a born-again Christian whose daily life mirrors the image that Capstone presents on stage.

Fans across the country agree that Capstone’s sound is the best it’s ever been and that experiencing the group in concert is more exciting, more uplifting and most importantly, more spirit-filled than ever. Audiences can expect to be inspired, challenged and humored by their presentation of the Gospel in song. While the group strives to keep Christ the center in all things it does, they also believe in enjoying their salvation and spreading this joy to their audiences. Group manager, Bob Sellers, will quickly remind you that when he was baptized, “it wasn’t in pickle juice!”, and that as Christians, no matter how doom and gloom the world around us may sometimes appear, with Jesus Christ in our hearts there is always plenty to smile about.